Monogastric Nutritionist

Alberta (Remote position)

Reporting to the Manager of Monogastric Nutrition, you will:

- Provide technical support to the sales team on relevant swine expertise, while delivering accurate and timely responses, feed and nutrition information, data and analysis to better service key accounts.
- Enhance customer relationships by providing advice on livestock performance and feed formulations, as required.
- Support new product development through customer feedback, market research and company administered research trials of innovative new feed and nutrition products.
- Collaborate with the Monogastric Nutrition team to relay relevant research findings, formulation guidelines and customer feedback to the sales and Product Specialist teams.
- Assist in the formulation of new products, product and nutrition training for new team members, ongoing training for the nutrition team, and aid in the field trial experiments.
- Organize and maintain a database of detailed product, customer and research data while ensuring accuracy and accessibility.
- Ensure all regulatory requirements are fulfilled by aiding in the registration of new products through government regulatory bodies.
- Work with the production team to support quality assurance and quality control programs as it pertains to swine feed, formulations and other related nutritional products.
- Represent the company by participating in industry events, and occasionally organize, attend and present at knowledge transfer sessions within Western Canada and in the United States, as required.
- Interact with different departments including production, purchasing, sales and senior leadership with regards to swine nutrition and product development.

Your background includes:

- An M.Sc. focused on animal nutrition or animal health, with a focus on swine nutrition.
- 5+ years of industry experience in a technical role focused on swine nutrition.
- A thorough understanding of swine management in Canada, including livestock health and nutrition, herd health, and marketplace knowledge.
- Proven experience formulating both premix and complete feed rations, and confidence using feed formulation software programs (e.g., Brill).
- Strong written and verbal communication skills, problem solving skills, and the ability to communicate effectively with different stakeholders in an organization.
- A passion for agriculture and the desire to be a part of a growing and innovative team.
- Ability to travel periodically within Canada and the United States.

This role is split between office time (20%), travel in Alberta (70%) and Saskatchewan (10%) with the sales and nutrition teams to visit Key Accounts and attend industry events, including the United States.
